

Idaho Stock Images

My work is now featured at Idaho Stock Images. I'm really excited to be part of a local agency. Chad and Marjorie are great to work with and they run a class act.

other than a couple of night spent sleeping in the truck.

We found that fall is prime time on the grand loop which takes in the Grand Canyon and Cedar Breaks to Arches. We covered a lot of miles and terrain and captured lots of images. The small sample in the newsletter will give you a taste of some of the beautiful country we got to see. You can find more on the site categorized by National Parks and Monuments, plus Route 66 if you like old cars, signs and buildings.

You could spend a week or more at every one of the locations we visited. For us the highlights were Arches, the Grand Canyon, Antelope Canyon and the Grand Staircase Escalante in

News Letter Resumes

After a long absence our news letter is resuming. Much has happened since our last letter which went out in September of 07, I'll recap quickly here.

Our server was compromised requiring us to rebuild the site so we bit the bullet and installed a completely new system as well. This task was completed in November 07.

We also completed processing all the images I've taken from 2005 through 2007. So the site now contains my complete portfolio.

We fit a two week trip to the Southwest in the last of Sept 2007 and another smaller trip to Bryce Canyon in January of 2008 which produced a lot of new images.

We started a marketing campaign in March of this year and after making substantial progress I am finally able to resume the newsletter. As you can see I have completely revised it for your viewing pleasure. I was able to restore all the previous news letters which you can still find on the site.

The fall colors were spectacular and Route 66 spoke to the ethanol in my veins. Seeing stretches of the old highway with the original Portland cement roadwork was something only a nostalgia buff would understand. If you plan on making this trip I recommend a week minimum per location to really take it in.

That wraps it for this month, next month we'll have more to look at and I'll get back to sharing tips I've learned along the way.
